Dear Mr. Simonides,

I am writing to you in my capacity as the President of the Oxford University Greek Society inviting you to consider staging 'Plato's The Apology of Socrates' in Oxford.

The OU Greek Society represents Oxford students of Hellenic origin. Its aim is to promote Hellenic culture within the University, and beyond. The Society currently comprises over 200 affiliated members and takes pride in the variety of events it organizes. Some of our recent events include talks by Judge Rozakis of the European Court of Human Rights, Athens University Professors Veremis, Giannitsis and Tsoukalis, leading classical actress Lydia Koniordou, in addition to Literary Nights, a Greek History Reading Group, Parties and more.

It would be a special honour for the committee if we could contribute to 'Plato's The Apology of Socrates' being staged in Oxford to the benefit of the members of the Greek Society and friends of Hellenic culture.

We hope that your visit to Oxford will give you the opportunity to interact with the academic community and to engage in serious and stimulating interaction with Oxford students and researchers.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

Markos Karavias
Greek Society President
